Proven Performance

- Nature's Kos organic fertilisers have shown clear benefits in cannabis cultivation, delivering faster growth, improved plant health, and enhanced bud development. Trial results demonstrated that plants treated with Nature's Kos experienced accelerated growth, doubling in size over a 6-week period, while maintaining healthy, green leaves with no signs of stress or discolouration. The fertiliser proved to be plant-safe, causing no damage when applied as directed, and supported consistent, vigorous development throughout the growth cycle.
- The use of Nature's Kos liquid fertiliser is particularly advantageous in modern cannabis farming, allowing for precise, controlled application directly to the plant. Its easy dilution and weekly application enable efficient nutrient uptake, ensuring plants receive consistent feeding without over-application. This results in stronger growth, improved plant uniformity, and increased bud formation, making it a practical and effective solution for both small-scale and commercial cannabis operations.
